FOR NATIONAL CONSERVATION EXPOSITION.

Congressional Sub-Committee With Congressman R. W. Austin Visits Knoxville to View the Exposition Grounds and Investigate Natural Resources of this Section to Make Recommendations on Mr. Austin's Bill to Appropriate $400,000.00

For the purpose of investigating the merits of the National Conservation exposition project, three members of the sub-committee of the congressional committee on liberal arts and exhibitions appointed to visit Knoxville, arrived in the city Monday afternoon from Washington. They and the other members of the party for Washington at two o'clock Wednesday.

In the party which arrived were the following: Representatives W. A. Cullip, of Indiana; Representative Ben Cravens, of Arkansas; Representative F. P. Moors, of Iowa, a conservation enthusiast; Representative Richard W. Austin, of this district, who introduced in congress the bill appropriating $400,000 for the exposition, which is now pending before the committee; Don Carlos Ellis, of Washington, secretary of the advisory board of the National Conservation exposition; J. Sanford Mullis, of Washington, 5—Knoxville Independent 7-26-1912 clerk of the sub-committee and private secretary to Representative T. J. Heflin, chairman of the congressional committee; Messdames Cravens, Towner and Austin, and Miss Jane Austin.

After visiting the exposition grounds members of the sub-committee expressed themselves as being delighted with their beauty and fitness for the holding of such an exposition as is contemplated. "They are the most beautiful exposition grounds that I have ever seen," said Judge Cullip, who is chairman of the sub-committee, "and will be an ideal location for a great conservation exposition. The natural beauty of the grounds is wonderful, the plant, you now have could hardly be improved upon, and the location is exactly right. Nature has certainly been generous in bestowing her beauties upon this portion of your community and your architects and builders have done wonderful well in designating and erecting the buildings you have."

"The grounds are extensive enough for an exposition of nationwide scope, such has been projected and their beauty is really wonderful. The buildings are artistic and splendidly suited for exposition purposes, and I consider the location ideal for a conservation exposition."

Similar expositions were made by the other members of the committee following their visit to the grounds. In honor of the distinguished guests, all of the buildings and grounds were brilliantly illuminated, and the rain of the afternoon having washed the dust from the walls of the buildings and freshened the grass, the beauty of the grounds and the buildings was really impressive.

Judge Cullip, chairman of the sub-committee, said that he and his associates would make their report to the main committee within the next few days. He said that the grounds, location and buildings of the exposition could not be praised too highly, but that they were ideal for a conservation exposition of national scope.

Congressman Lindbergh, of Minnesota says, There is a "joker" in the Aldrich central bank plan, so that in transferring bonds to individuals friendly to the money trust, the trust could evade paying taxes on $900,000,000 and bond holders could thus save $244,000,000 in taxes during the years the bonds were maturing.

TWELVE KILLED; MILLION LOSS

A TERRIFIC RAIN STORM AND FLOOD SWEEPS UNIONTOWN, PENNSYLVANIA.

20,000 DRIVEN FROM HOME

Town of Dunbar Practically Annihilated, Parts of It Being Under 25 Feet of Water—Miles of Track Destroyed.

Uniontown, Pa., July 25.—Bringing death to probably 40 persons and doing a property damage of more than $1,000,000, a terrific rainstorm and flood swept this section of Pennsylvania. The bodies of 12 miners have floated to the surface from the workings of the Superba mine at Evans station, three miles from here, which was flooded, while 50 others escaped. Twenty thousand persons, residents of the valley beneath the Cool Springs reservoir, the largest in Fayette county, are fleeing from their homes, fearing a repetition of the Austin disaster. Water is seeping from the Coal Springs dam, and it is feared that it will not be able to hold the enormous torrent of water which poured into the reservoir during the day.

Dunbar is under 25 feet of water in some places and the majority of the buildings in the place have been swept away. Fears are also felt for the safety of Mount Braddock, Lamont, Youngstown and other mining and coke settlements in the path of the flood.

The tracks of the Pennsylvania and the Baltimore & Ohio railroad companies and the West Pennsylvania trolley line have been torn up for many miles and telegraph and telephone wires are down.

Heavy rains all day sent the mountain streams on a rampage. The creeks soon overflowed and the water began rushing into the Superba mine in two places. Forty miners were at work when the water began flowing in and the men were driven backward and prevented from getting to the surface.

The report that the mine was flooding spread rapidly and the wives and families of miners began flocking to the mouth of the pit. Despite the danger of being caught in the swirling and drawn into the open shaft, they crowded about the pit and prayer for the rescuers.

Later 14 bodies floated out. At Dunbar, debris piled against the Pennsylvania railroad bridge and the water behind it rose until its depth was estimated at from 20 to 25 feet.

Damage at Millersburg. Millersburg, O., July 25.—The fiercest storm of the season swept through this section, causing heavy damage. Slate roofs were ripped off and a part of the stone coping on the new post-office building was blown off. Vegetation, flower gardens, grain shocks and standing oats and corn were flattened and scattered.

Newark, O., is Hit. Newark, O., July 25.—A terrific electrical storm struck the city, knocking down telegraph, telephone and trolley wires and crippling traffic for several hours.

The House of Representatives passed the Clayton contempt bill 232 to 18 providing for trial by jury for those accused of indirect contempt of a federal court.
